Wine List

Our wine list is progressive: succulent Riesling and Moscato d’Asti with rich, natural sweetness and firm acidity to boldly structured Cabernet Sauvignon from Italy and California... and a few fabulous wines in between.

We’ve also included critical reviews of wines that received exceptional scores.

Many wines listed were also reviewed with glowing remarks, but did not make the 90+ rating or Tre Bicchieri (3 Glasses—the highest rating possible from Gambero Rosso—the most coveted rating for Italian wines).

We’ve provided you with critical commentary from Robert Parker’s The Wine Advocate (RP), Steven Tanzer International Wine (ST) and The Wine Spectator (WS).

Keep in mind, reviews are simply opinions. Yours is the one that counts the most.

Enjoy!

Sangiovese

Italy's international chosen one. Grown in many regions of Tuscany and showing different characteristics from each – much like a child reared by different parents in different places. Some things stay the same, some things are "tweaked" a bit. Chianti is the most famous. Brunello di Montalcino is the most revered. International blends with Sangiovese, Cabernet Sauvignon, and other bold grapes are grouped into a category known as "Super Tuscans", Cabernet Sauvignon serves as the foundation of most of these wines. They are completed and improved by blending Merlot, Cabernet Franc, Malbec, and sometimes Petit Verdot or Syrah. These wines are the most beloved "children" of their wineries.

Dolcetta & Barbera

The reds of everyday Italian tables. Grown in the northern regions of Italy, full of fruit, reserved tannins, and just delicious to drink. Well balanced for a variety of palates and cuisine.

Vietti Barbera d'Asti, Piedmonte, Italy 2018	42
Castello Di Neive Barbera D'Alba Steffano, Piedmonte, Italy 2018	44
Prunotto Dolcetto d'Alba, Piedmonte, Italy 2014	42

Nebbiolo

The wines are Barolo and Barbaresco. The grape is Nebbiolo. Barolo is the Queen of Italian Wines. Barbaresco – the crowned Prince. These wines are lush, dense, incredibly concentrated, yet showing restraint and elegance. Completely age-worthy and still generous in their youth. Ideal with hearty cuisine and typically expensive, like royalty.

Travaglini Gattinara Nebbiolo, Piemonte, Italy 2016	63
Cantina del Pino Barbaresco, Piedmonte, Italy 2011	300

Produttori Barbaresco, Piedmonte, Italy 2015	69

Amarone & Valpolicella

The grapes are Corvina, Rondinella, and Molinara—the wines are memorable. Dark, chewy, luxurious. Like candy for grownups. Though highly concentrated, many retain a silky characteristic that sends you back for more and more. A perfect complement to hearty cheeses and dried fruit.

Allegrini Palazzo Della Torre Valpolicella, Veneto, Italy 2015	49
Zenato Ripasso Valpolicella Superiore, Veneto, Italy 2016	60
Nicolis Amarone della Valpolicella Classico, Veneto, Italy 2013	120

Salcheto Vino Nobile di Montepulciano, Tuscany, Italy 2016	70	3 Bicchieri, WA 93

Syrah, Zinfandel & Red Blends

Now planted all over the world, including Italy, Syrah exhibits different personalities depending on the vineyard site, but is almost always a masculine wine. Hearty, tannic, dense color and aroma. Wonderful with game or smoked meats and cheeses. Zinfandel has its roots in Italy with Primitivo surfacing in recent years as the “twin brother from another mother.”

Vigilance Cimarron, Lake County, California 2016 A blend of Zinfandel, Syrah, Petite Sirah and Cabernet results in a multilayered wine with good balance.	36
Tenuta la Bodiola 642 Maremma Toscana, Tuscany, Italy 2017	37

Meyer Family, Syrah, Yorkville Highlands, Mendocino, California 2014 Coming from Bonny and Justin Meyer, the founders of Silver Oak, Meyer Family Cellars delivers the quality wines you’d expect without the price tag you would normally pay for. A benchmark of a California Syrah.	68
Orwin Swift, Locations “I,” NV	13/50

Malbec & Merlot

The siblings of Cabernet Sauvignon, these two gems are satisfying to a groomed palate, but tend to offer more simple pleasure than complicated conversation. Just enjoyable, balanced, full-bodied wines. Malbec has found a palace of a home in Argentina, while Merlot is best represented from California and France.

Ghost Pines Merlot, Napa Valley, California 2017	12/45
Don David Malbec Riserva, Salta-Cafayate, Argentina 2018	9/36
Jason Stephens Merlot, Santa Clara Valley, California 2014	40

Duckhorn ‘Decoy’ Merlot, Sonoma, California 2018	50
Keenan Merlot, Napa Valley, California 2014	90
Duckhorn Merlot, Napa Valley, California 2017	120

Cabernet Sauvignon

The king of red grapes, Cabernet Sauvignon is hailed as the mighty warrior to which all producers yield respect. Intense, yet framed and balanced, the best Cabernet Sauvignon exhibits strength with charm. Tannic, broad-shouldered, and best with red meat or cheeses.

Joel Gott 815 Napa Valley, California 2017	10/38
Gouguenheim, Mendoza, Argentina 2018	8/30
Twenty Rows, North Coast, California 2018	45
